We invite you to attend the seventh annual New England Supply Chain Conference & Educational Exhibition (NESCON 2010) on October 3rd – October 4th 2010 at the Best Western Royal Plaza Hotel & Trade Center in Marlborough, Massachusetts.

As the 2010 key supply management event in New England, the Conference promises to provide you with a unique opportunity to enhance your understanding of complex supply, operations, negotiations, materials and logistics issues in the global economy. Leading edge workshops, keynote speakers, and plenty of networking time with colleagues from across the supply chain are available to enrich your experience.

On Monday morning, Jeffrey B. Carr, President & Economist - EPR will launch the conference with a keynote on the “Economic Outlook - A New England Perspective”, with a special segment on the recession, and the forecast for the recovery! Jeff will then be followed by expert presenters from academia, consulting and industry. Monday's luncheon keynoter will be Nagaraj Srinivasan Vice President – Supply Chain, Oracle, who will address "From Recession to Recovery: Transforming Your Supply Chain for Success and Market Leadership".

The 2010 program addresses current issues in supply, operations, materials and logistics.

A quick list of topics includes:

- ✓ China Sourcing
