

Home
Electronics
Logistics
MRO/Indirect
Office Products
Technology
Commodities

Articles
Blogs
Events
Profiles
Debates
Videos
Webcasts
Podcasts

Their Companies are Lucky to Have Them

Share

October 11, 2011 at 3:48 PM

I once again had the pleasure of speaking at the 2011 New England Supply Chain Conference and Exhibition in Marlborough, Massachusetts last week. My talk was on supply chain leadership and I focused on the organizational and management issues within businesses today. I was pleased to speak to about 75 supply chain professionals.

The key topic I covered was change... change in the workplace, change in our career, and change in our jobs. For the record I teach a lot about change but I really don't like it. My wife hears about it when she rearranges the pictures of the kids on top of the television. But it was quite evident that change was afoot in most of the organizations represented. Some was positive change that addressed some performance issues. But most was change caused by uncertainty. Change caused by economic factors, changes in markets or customers, and changes in management. This is the kind of change that made us most uncomfortable.

We also chatted about stress and how we manage it. Most worked it off at the gym and others tried to bury their stress in a bowl of ice cream. Still one other said he used drugs and while the crowd chuckled, for some it may hit close to home. It was obvious by the look on their faces that stress was a normal part of their lives. And according to many, it was getting worse due to the unending change in the workplace.

I opened with a question that I ask most groups. I asked for a show of hands on how many of their departments were fully staffed. No hands went up. I thought that they didn't hear me so I asked again, and I got the same response. Sadly, staffing had been an issue for as long as they could remember. And they were also quick to tell me that help was not on the way. Ever.

So, let's tie these three issues together. I was speaking to a group of understaffed, stress-out supply management professionals who were trying their best to manage the never ending change in the workplace. But they were a pleasant and affable bunch, attending this conference to learn as much as they could about current trends in supply management. Dedicated professionals all.

Their companies are lucky to have them.

*The science of
The heart of p*

Procurement Performance
An integrated high perfor

Lea

Related Co

One Change Com
Jim Modugno

Not that many years
the formula is Selling
Read More

Questions? My P
Susan Avery

If you're looking for a you'll want to participi
Read More

Building The Bus
Vantage Partners

Vantage Partners ha
SRM Community of I teleconference, ma...

Supplier P

OfficeMax
OfficeMax Compan

OfficeMax Incorporat
business-to-business
products... Read Mo

DigiKey
Guest Contributor

It started in 1972 with Today, Digi-Key Corp electr... Read More

Lunney Advisory
Soheila Lunney

Lunney Advisory Grc your typical consultin highl... Read More

IASTA
Erica Wanous

Founded in 2000, Ias teams with the tools : results.... Read More

0 tweets
tweet

Rich Weissman

Endicott College Assistant Professor Rich Weissman teaches management courses for the School of Business and the Van Loan Graduate School. He is also the director of corporate education, which includes the Center for Leadership, Endicott's management development institute.

Office Products

Technology
Solutions

Print & Document
Services

Furniture & Space Planning

FIND YOUR HIDE

Please add a comment

Leave a Reply

Name:

Email:

(Your email will not be publicly displayed.)

Please type the letters and numbers shown in the image.

Webcasts

What CEOs Expe
Guest Contributor

Procurement and sup the table, and manag do CEOs rea... Read

Growing Purchas
Guest Contributor

At world-class comp about every area of s team... Read More

Procurement-Fin:
Guest Contributor

Procurement & finan often at loggerheads lac... Read More

MyPurcha

About Us

Privacy Policy